SYNOPSIS: The story opens with two members of the brotherhood and their two male children being chased by Heaven, Earth, and miscellaneous bad guys. The two members get away separately with their children. 20 years later, we see Cheng Lung (Jackie Chan) as he hunts frogs and snakes and keeps them in his pants. You learn he was one of the boys. The other is Lung's slacking cousin Tung (Austin Wai) who uses windmill-driven levers to deliver things to and from bedside, even a chamberpot and breakfast.

Two cousins team up to avenge the cold-blooded murder of their respective paternal figures, who were slain by the two aforementioned age-old arch enemies Heaven and Earth in hot pursuit while slaughtering the entire Yin-Yang brotherhood along with them. After the unfortunate and untimely loss of his father, Lung's long-lost uncle resurfaces. The two slacking Kung Fu prodigies then endeavor to fight the "devil" duo to the death.
