Siren (stylized as SiREN) is a 2016 American horror film directed by Gregg Bishop and written by Ben Collins and Luke Piotrowski. It is the first spin-off film in the V/H/S franchise and feature-length adaptation of "Amateur Night", David Bruckner's segment from the 2012 anthology horror film V/H/S. It was released on December 2, 2016 in theatres, on DVD on December 6, 2016 and on Netflix January 1, 2020. The film focuses on Jonah (Chase Williamson) and his groomsmen the day before his wedding, as they embark on a wild night of partying and debauchery. The party, however, becomes a savage fight for survival when they unwittingly unleash a fabled predator upon the festivities.

SYNOPSIS: Jonah goes out with his brother Mac and friends Rand and Elliot for his bachelor's party at a secret club. The owner, Nyx, welcomes them and upon hearing that Jonah wants a non-cheating experience, Nyx sends him to a private room.

Jonah sees a captive woman on the other side of a glass window. He tries to talk to her and she begins singing. Jonah, in a trance, suddenly relives all the sexual encounters he has ever had at once. Fearing that the woman is a sex slave, Jonah and his friends help her escape and she kills a guard, revealing a demonic form. After the friends flee in a car, the woman pursues them and crashes the car and kidnaps Elliot.

Nyx and his men kidnap Rand and torture him over the creature - Lilith. Jonah and Mac escape to a diner but Lilith finds them and kills the people inside and flies away with Jonah. In a quarry, Lilith uses a trance fantasy of her being Eva, Jonah's fiancée, to rape him. When he comes to his senses, Jonah returns to his hotel where Nyx offers a trade of Rand for Lilith at a nearby church.

At the church Nyx says that Lilith is a succubus he imprisoned previously and he needs Jonah to recapture her. Lilith arrives and Jonah tells her he will let her go if he and Rand can leave. Lilith kills Nyx and his henchmen, and Lilith releases Jonah with a kiss after Mac is killed.

One year later, Jonah and Eva are celebrating their anniversary and after making love, Jonah goes downstairs and sees Eva asleep on the couch, realizing Lilith used another trance upstairs. She attacks Eva and Jonah says he will go with her if she spares Eva. Lilith grabs Jonah, and they fly off into the night.
